Stadium Concert Event: Y Live at YSU's Stambaugh Stadium
August 11, 2018

Presented by: Southwoods Health, Huntington Bank, Sweeney Chevrolet Buick GMC, The DeBartolo Corporation, Youngstown State University, and Phantom Fireworks.

Youngstown, OH — JAC Live in co-promotion with The Muransky Companies are proud to present multi-platinum global superstars, Florida Georgia Line, as part of Youngstown's second annual stadium concert event, Y Live. Opening for the ultra-talented duo will be Morgan Wallen, the singer of the chart-rising hit "Up Down" featuring FGL and regional fan favorite, Chris Higbee.

History repeats itself as once again our street will be filled with thousands of people supporting one of country music's hottest acts, in our ever transforming city of Youngstown. With new restaurants and amenities, Y Live provides the opportunity for our community to experience the city we call home to the fullest, while celebrating bold new music. Y live is an exciting blend of valuing our cities past, while celebrating our present revolutions to pave the way for endless development possibilities for the future of Youngstown's entertainment sector.

"Last year's Y Live was an incredible amount of hard work and we were thrilled with the result of the success!" Eric Ryan, JAC Live CEO said. "It was a no-brainer to produce another stadium event after the unbelievable response we received from the community. We hope to continue to elevate Youngstown's music scene for many years to come." expressed Ryan.

Another exciting improvement to last year's event is that Youngstown State University students will have the opportunity to purchase two discounted tickets for them and a guest instead of just one. "Any concert is better with a friend and we are really thrilled to be able to offer this benefit to YSU students, thanks to the University's support." said Ryan. More information will be released by the University within the following few weeks.

Celebrated as THE Youngstown music event, Y Live will be held on Saturday, August 11, 2018, at 7:00 pm. Florida Georgia Line will take the field to perform an electrified set of back to back chart-topping hits from fan favorite albums “Dig Your Roots” and “Anything Goes”.

Y-Live could not be possible without our presenting sponsors that include; Southwoods Health, Huntington Bank, Sweeney Chevrolet Buick GMC, The DeBartolo Corporation, Youngstown State University, and Phantom Fireworks.

ABOUT MORGAN WALLEN:

Morgan Wallen's "addictive" (Morning Hangover) new single "Up Down," featuring Florida Georgia Line, is catapulting up the Country radio airplay charts and has earned high praise from the likes of Billboard, Rolling Stone Country, Taste of Country, Sounds Like Nashville, Whiskey Riff and more. With more than 136 million streams to his credit, the engaging entertainer was named to CMT's LISTEN UP "18 for 2018" class of newcomers and sharpened his performance skills opening for superstars including FGL and label mate Chris Lane. He's currently on the road for his first headlining trek – the UP DOWN TOUR. Also an in-demand songwriter, Wallen has co-penned hits for A Thousand Horses, Dustin Lynch, and Kane Brown, as well as Jason Aldean's sultry Top 5 "You Make It Easy." His five-song EP THE WAY I TALK (2016) features Top 30 debut single "The Way I Talk," that made its mark on Spotify's popular Wild Country, New Boots and New Music Friday playlists. Born in Sneedville, Tenn. (also home to bluegrass legend Jimmy Martin), Wallen was a star on the baseball diamond, attended the same high school as Country superstar Kenny Chesney, and has deep roots in the church. With a Hard Rock-loving preacher for a father and a mother who couldn't get enough Country and contemporary Christian music, Wallen began performing for his local congregation at the tender age of 3 and went on to develop a strong love of Country, Rock and Hip-Hop. His debut album IF I KNOW ME, produced by award-winning studio whiz Joey Moi, will be released April 27 on Big Loud Records.

ABOUT CHRIS HIGBEE:

Chris Higbee grew up a farm boy with a musical curiosity and a diligent mother and father. That curiosity quickly became a passion that drove his dreams. "Fiddles Rock," the first track on Higbee's new album, tells that story and was inspired by his late father. It was co-written with Higbee's producer Tommy Harden and Don Rollins ("It's Five O'clock Somewhere").

Chris founded the Poverty Neck Hillbillies (PNH) in 2000; delivering uniquely wild and energetic concerts across the country on stages, rooftops and anything else Higbee could fathom a way to play from! PNH performed for seven years before disbanding, acquiring an international fan base, distributing two records and releasing a No. 2 nationally rated video, "Mr. Right Now," starring "Big Ben" Roethlisberger starting quarter back of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"When I was a boy, all I ever wanted was to sport a fancy coat, pick and sing...I put a fiddle in my hand and started a band"...

Chris is now performing as a solo artist and currently promoting the self-titled album “Chris Higbee” with singles such as, “Write to Me,” a song written to his wife who served overseas in Iraq, and was deployed immediately after exchanging wedding vows.
